PLANS MADE TO BUILD ADDITION

Joint Committee Decides Monday Night to Erect Structure on Old M. E. Parsonage Site.

MAY INCLUDE A GYMNASIUM

Architects Will be Consulted and Active Preparations Made—Idea of Repairing is Abandoned.

Tentative plans have been laid and a definite conclusion reached that an addition, probably to include a gymnasium, dining room, reading rooms and additional Sunday school rooms, shall be built on the east end of the St. Paul M. E. church where the old church parsonage now stands.

A meeting of the joint committee from the official board of the church and the Ladies Aid society was held at the church last night and it was arranged for the parsonage to be sold as soon as a buyer can be found and for consultation with architects relative to the form that the new structure shall take.

It is impossible yet to state just what form the plans will take, but it has long been the desire of the young people of the church to have reading rooms and a gymnasium. It is also said to be the wish of the Sunday school officials to have more room for classes. Even with the main auditorium of the church, the room for the convening of the classes has been cramped and limited.

When the subject of an addition to the church was first broached to the official board of the church, it is reported that it was not met with much favor. Members of the Ladies Aid society had a fund on hand which they desired to spend in repairing the old parsonage.

The plan of the society was to tear out all the partitions in the parsonage and to convert the upstairs and downstairs each into a big room. Their idea was to have a large dining hall on one floor and reading rooms on another. It was stated at the committee meeting last night that the members of the Aid society had completely given up this idea, because it was impractical, and had consented to the sale of the old parsonage and the erection of an addition to the church.

The clamor for a gymnasium and reading rooms for the young people of the church has been very great. When the plan was first proposed, five men of the church agreed to donate a thousand dollars each if five other men in the church would do the same thing. That offer did more than anything else, it is understood, to bring the plans to a focus, even though it was not successful.

It has long been the dream of the

LOBBYIST ARE AT HAND

In Indianapolis to Defeat Trading
Stamp Bill in Legislature.

The information is out that a number of high salaried lobbyists have arrived from Cincinnati and points in the east, to work against the trading stamp bill that is now before the house. The trading stamp companies, which clean up millions of dollars, do not wish to let go of the good thing. Several lobbyists arrived in Columbus, O., once, to defeat just such a bill as is now pending before the Indiana legislature, and they turned out to be Burns detectives, with the result that some of the Ohio legislators are now in the penitentiary.

young people of the church to have a gymnasium and reading rooms. It is hoped by them that a modern gymnasium will be installed in the basement of the proposed addition. The first suggestion for an addition to the church was that it should cover all the space east of the church to the alley and south to the line dividing the lot and the adjoining one.

The initial step taken by the Methodist church will probably bring on a new era in church history in Rushville. A few years ago the suggestion that reading rooms or a gymnasium should be connected in anyway with a church was ridiculed, but, in keeping with the trend of the times, the churches have endeavored to interest the young people and make the church a place that will attract them.

The Main Street Christian church is considering the improvement of the present building or an addition similar to that planned for the Methodist church, gymnasium and reading rooms to be installed in the improvement. A committee has been at work or some time and has already drawn plans and considered locations.

FIGHT FOR CHILD'S CUSTODY IS ENDED

Judge Blair in Shelbyville Puts Blanch Brown Under Care of Family Which Reared Her.

AUNT AT MANILLA WANTED HER

The fight for the custody of little Blanch Brown, the twelve year old daughter of Mrs. George Bontz, was quickly brought to an end Monday in the court of Judge Blair, when he decided to give the custody of the child to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stotsenberg instead of to an aunt, Mrs. Lizzie Fisher of Manilla, says the Shelbyville Republican.

The Stotsenberg family was given the child a year ago by the mother, and they have reared the little girl, sending her to Sunday school, to the public school and treating her as one of their own children. The aunt wanted to place the child in another family, as she claimed now the child was not allowed to see her and its other relatives. It was shown that the Stotsenberg family is well able to provide for the child, as the family lives on a farm, and the Judge gave them that privilege.

POLL OF CITY IS COMPLETED

Shows That Rushville Has 1678
Voters.

A poll of the city of Rushville taken for the "wet" and "dry" election by Jesse Harlow and Soral Moore shows 1678 voters. The poll was completed today and is the largest ever registered here. This is almost three hundred more votes than was cast for mayor at the last city election. In their canvass of the city the men say they counted only eleven empty houses. Mr. Harlow states that two years ago the count of the city mail carriers showed that there were over one hundred unoccupied houses. The vote at this election will be the largest ever cast here.

BLAKEMON IS ON TRIAL AGAIN

This Time Colored Man is Charged in Affidavit With Attempt to Blackmail.

SIGNED BY MARION McCANN

First Evidence Heard This Afternoon
After Defendant's Motion to Quash is Overruled.

The first evidence in the case of the State against William Blakemon, colored, charged in an affidavit signed by Marion McCann with attempting to blackmail McCann, which began in the circuit court this morning, was not heard until this afternoon.

The empaneling of the jury began about ten o'clock after Judge McGee had overruled a motion to quash the affidavit. The argument on the motion lasted over an hour. The jury was obtained shortly before two o'clock.

The chief objection to members of the special venire drawn for the trial was that they held some prejudice to the colored race. Others were dismissed because they had formed some opinion because the case in all its phases had been before the public for more than six years.

There was a long delay this afternoon when Mrs. Blakemon, who was refused a divorce from her husband last fall, failed to appear in court. She was summoned by the sheriff and was in court all morning, but did not show up after dinner. J. Q. Thomas was dispatched by the court to bring her to the trial.

Marion McCann testified for the prosecution as the first witness. George Hall, the second state witness, who was a member of one of the grand juries that indicted Blakemon, testified that the signature to the letter, introduced as evidence and purported to be written by Blakemon to McCann, was in the same handwriting as the signature Blakemon made for the grand jury in its presence when he was being questioned prior to the returning of the indictment.

After the jury had arrived this morning to hear the Blakemon case, attorneys for the defendant filed a motion to quash the affidavit charging an attempt to blackmail and the argument was heard immediately.

Prosecutor Donald Smith, in opposition to the quashing of the affidavit, argued that there was plenty of evidence to support the charge made against the colored man. He said that the letter, written by Blakemon to Marion McCann, who signed the affidavit, was sufficient evidence that an attempt had been made to blackmail the prosecuting witness.

The prosecutor charged that the letter contained veiled threats in that it stated that the writer had been advised to bring suit against McCann for the alienation of Blakemon's wife's affections, but that he would not do so if McCann would settle outside of court.

The prosecutor said that the letter intimated that Blakemon might attempt prosecution because the alleged story of improper relations which were said to have existed. Prosecutor Smith said the bringing of the alienation suit against McCann by the defendant in the case in itself was sufficient basis for the charge made in the affidavit.

John A. Tittsworth of counsel for the defendant stated that there could be no basis for a charge of attempting to blackmail since no criminal action was threatened. He contended that there could be no grounds for

CITY SUED FOR $1,000 DAMAGES

W. A. Jones Today Files Complaint,
Alleging Land Where Wells Were Dug Was Injured.

LOST USE OF PASTURE, HE SAYS

Declares Fences Were Broken Down and Grass Was Destroyed by Overflow of Race.

As the result of its efforts to get water last summer, the city of Rushville has a thousand dollar damage suit on its hands.

William A. Jones, on whose land just east of the city and across the mill race, the city has three wells, brought suit in the circuit court today, alleging that he had been damaged to that extent.

The complaint states that in the summer of 1912 the city contracted for and had dug three wells in the Jones pasture land. The plaintiff asserts that the city had not at the time work on the wells began, or did not at any future time, condemn the land on which the wells were dug. He sets forth that the wells are all good and that they are now in use and have been most of the time since they were attached to the city mains.

The complaint says that the city damaged the tract of land when the well driller dug a ditch three-quarters of a mile in length and thirty inches wide. Additional damage was done, Mr. Jones further alleges, when the large well drilling machine, drawn by a traction engine, passed over the pasture land.

In connecting the wells with the city mains, the complaint charges, it was necessary to tunnel under the mill race, and in so doing the city's workmen permitted the race to flow over the plaintiff's pasture lands. He says that the flow of race water totally ruined from one to two acres of the pasture land.

Mr. Jones declares that in locating the well drilling machine and going to and from the pasture, the fences were broken down and the gates were left open. He asserts that he received fifty dollars a month pasture rent, but that he couldn't keep any cattle in the pasture because of the neglect and damage done by the city employees and therefore lost the usual rental from the middle of last summer until Christmas.

The complaint says in addition that the well drillers broke down the fence to a field of young clover. It states that the stock got into the field and ate the crop and wholly destroyed it.

Mr. Jones alleges that he was compelled to keep his stock in a barn during the time that he could not use his pasture because of the alleged damage that had been done to it, and that he was put to additional expense of feeding the stock hay and grain, which expense he would not have had if he had had the use of the pasture.

The complaint says also that poles have been built on his land to the detriment of the land. He says in closing that he is not guilty of any contributory negligence. Will M. Sparks is the attorney for Mr. Jones.

A baby girl was born to the wife of James Swihart, 2981 Cleveland Heights, Cleveland, Ohio, Sunday, according to word received this morning by the new grandfather, John A. Spurrier. The baby has been named Migion. Mrs. Spurrier has been the guest at her daughter's home for several weeks.

FORMER RESIDENT IS DEAD

Mrs. Isabelle Maxwell Succumbs in

Mrs. Isabelle Maxwell, 84 years old, widow of the late John M. Maxwell, a former resident of this city, died this morning at her home in Indianapolis. Mrs. Maxwell was the daughter of the late William and Isabelle Moffett pioneers of Rush county. Mrs. I. W. Harris of Columbus, Ohio, is the only surviving member of the family of six children. Mrs. Maxwell was well known here. She is survived by five children, William, John, Mrs. D. M. Parry, Mrs. Mary Knippenburg, and Mrs. Ada E. Rose, all of Indianapolis. The funeral services will be held Thursday at the late residence in North Meridian street.

TWO "DRUNKS" ARE FINED $5 AND COSTS

Morton Campbell and "Chuck" Bartlett Are Shown No Leniency
by Mayor Black.

BOTH PAY FINES WITH CHECKS

Two fines of five dollars and costs for public intoxication were assessed by Mayor Black, one last night and one this morning. Morton Campbell was arraigned this morning after having spent the night in jail. The chief of police was called last night and told that a drunken man was creating a disturbance in the vicinity of Harrison and Seventh streets. It was also reported to the police that the man had attempted to enter a house. Campbell was led down to the I & C. traction station by a couple of men and later found there by Chief McAllister.

"Chuck" Bartlett of near Milroy, who was arrested yesterday afternoon, was sent home in a livery rig after he had paid a fine in court last night. Relatives sent the police word that Bartlett's aged mother was all alone and that he was needed there. Both men paid their fines with checks.

LON R. MAUZY IS UNDER ARREST

Former Rushville Man is Charged With Sending Correspondence as Fourth Class Matter.

SAYS BOY MAILED ARTICLE

Indianapolis Druggist Arrested For Mailing Morphine to Mrs. Frances Frederick of This County.

The arrest of seven men for violation of the postal laws on indictments returned by the federal grand jury in Indianapolis holds special interest for Rushville people because Lon R. Mauzy, formerly of this city and well known here, is one of the accused persons. He is charged with sending correspondence as fourth class matter.

Another one of the seven cases is also of local interest as Louis E. Haag, an Indianapolis druggist, is charged with sending morphine illegally through the mails to Mrs. Frances Frederick, living on rural mail route eight out of this city. Alvin Todd, a clerk for Haag, was also arrested on the same charge.

Postoffice Inspector Fletcher, who made the investigation leading to the return of the indictment, said that the morphine was sent on a money order for $1.75. Haag declined to make a statement, saying that he did not know the circumstances of the case.

Mr. Mauzy is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Sarah Mauzy who moved from Rushville to San Francisco several years ago for permanent residence. Lon Mauzy conducts a jewelry store in Massachusetts avenue in Indianapolis. He was born and reared here and has a large circle of friends here.

The Indianapolis Star says that Mr. Mauzy told deputy marshal that the package in question, which, according to the indictment, was addressed to A. A. Lupein, 34 Broad street, Pawtucket, R. I., was mailed by a boy in his employ. He has been in the jewelry business at the same address on Massachusetts avenue for twenty-one years.

THEY SIDESTEP GARNISHEE BILL

Make It a Special Order for Sunday.

ONE WAY OUT OF A DILEMMA

Members of House Breathe a Sigh of Relief When Parliamentary Disposition of Much-Discussed Measure Averts the Necessity of Their Going on Record Again on Bill Which Possessed Boomerang Possibilities.

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—The house tabled a Branaman resolution calling on the governor to accept Representative Keegan's resignation, refused to reconsider the vote killing the Norris bill to exempt Greek letter fraternity houses from taxation, and sentenced the Billman garnishee bill to death by making it a special order of business for March 2, which is Sunday.

Representative W. W. Spencer, who had opposed this measure because he feared it "would kill the Democratic party in Indiana," took this method in killing the bill. Mr. Spencer's motion was made immediately after Representative Billman, author of the bill, sought to call it up for passage. The members were glad to dodge going on record again, and they supported Spencer's motion and breathed a sigh of relief when the speaker announced that the motion had prevailed.

Among the bills passed was the Hawkins-G. W. Spencer measure, in which the house committee worked out its ideas on roads legislation and put forward a measure to be substituted for the Hughes highway commission bill, which was defeated some time ago by a movement which was led by the farmers of the house. The vote was 76 to 12. The bill embodies ideas which were discussed by Governor Ralston and representative house farmers, and is to be passed as an administration bill. It is one of the few big bills now marked for early action and enactment. Another bill passed was the teachers' pension bill, applying to Terre Haute.

Doings in the Senate.

The senate voted for the exemption of $37,500,000 worth of Indiana personal property from further taxation by enacting Senator Lamont's bill which exempts $75 worth of household goods owned by each taxpayer, and killed Senator Stotsenburg's bill providing for a commission to establish a hospital for inebriates and appropriating $100,000 for the purpose. Senator Lamont said his bill was designed to preserve to the poor their household property. Senator Will R. Wood declared that the proposed law was unconstitutional, as the constitution specifically provides that "all property," personal and real, shall be taxed. Senator Curtis warned the members that the state finances would not permit any such exemption as the bill proposed. However, the members would not be "warned," and the measure was pushed through, 27 to 14. The bill also exempts all family musical instruments from taxation, no matter what may be their value.

Senator Carey Jackson's bill, providing for the establishing of schools of instruction in agriculture and domestic science and providing a tax for their building and maintenance, was passed by a vote of 39 to 1. The bill is not mandatory, the matter of establishing such schools being left entirely to the county.

MOB THREATENED OLD MAN

Septuagenarian Confesses Base Crime Against Young Girl.

Shelbyville, Ind., Feb. 18.—Jacob Neeb, seventy years old, narrowly missed being mobbed here because of his brutal treatment of Montie Pope, twelve years old, daughter of Chris Pope, and is now in jail on a charge of attacking the girl, after being rescued from an angry mob by Police Sergeant Tolen.

Neeb dragged the girl into his home, which is little more than a hut, as she was passing along the street. She screamed and the police were called.

Before the sergeant arrived a crowd had collected and was threatening to hang Neeb to a telephone pole. The girl's story is that he had mistreated her on three occasions and that he had told her he would kill her if she informed her parents. Neeb confessed his guilt.

JOAQUIN MILLER

"Poet of the Sierras," Just Dead, Was Native Hoosier.

DEATH CALL COMES TO JOAQUIN MILLER

Poet of the Sierras Succumbs to Old Age.

San Francisco, Feb. 18.—At his home on the heights overlooking Berkeley, Oakland and San Francisco, Joaquin Miller, poet of the Sierras, died Monday afternoon. Death came as the result of natural decline of physical force of the aged poet, who was seventy-two.

Miller had been unconscious for five days, and he had been confined to his bed for six weeks. His wife and his daughter, Juanita, were the only ones in attendance.

About a year ago Mr. Miller was taken seriously ill and his wife, who had been separated from him for years, was induced by her daughter to visit and help care for the old poet. He recovered slowly, but it was only within the last two months that he was able to walk about unaided.

Miller's body will be burned on a funeral pyre of stone which he built with his own hands. Nearby is the tomb of rock which he erected to the memory of Moses. Nearby is the grave of his mother, who lived to be over ninety years old.

Miller entertained many celebrities at the Heights. His habit was to write in bed until noon. Then he appeared, arrayed like a cowboy, in a flannel shirt, sombrero, high boots and corduroy trousers.

His place consisted of ten acres over which were scattered dozens of small houses. One of these he occupied, another served for his wife and daughter, another for a dining room, and others for visitors. He believed no two people should live under the same roof. The old gray poet was born on Liberty, Wayne county, Indiana.

THE GRAFT NET SPREADING

Inspector Sweeney and Two Plain-clothes Men Now Held.

New York, Feb. 18.—Police Inspector Dennis Sweeney gave himself up and was arraigned before Justice Goff on an indictment returned by the extraordinary grand jury charging him with bribery. Beside the inspector were two policemen who were plain clothes men on his staff. These were Thomas F. Robinson, indicted on a charge of bribery made by a restaurant keeper, and John J. Hartigan, indicted for perjury on the basis of statements made before the grand jury. All were released on bail.

The trial of the inspector will be moved by the district attorney as soon as the condition of Captain Thomas W. Walsh, who says he passed graft money to the inspector, will permit. Nothing was forthcoming from Sweeney, his counsel, nor the district attorney, as to whether the inspector would join the state in its present investigation and assist in carrying the responsibility on further.

"Arson Trust" Trial Begins.

BUSINESS PLANS PETTY AND MEAN

Cash Register People Scored
By Court.

PRISON SENTENCES GIVEN

In Sentencing President Patterson of the National Cash Register Company and Associates to Various Terms in Jail For Having Adopted Illegal Methods in Breaking Down Competition, Court Doesn't Spare Them.

Cincinnati, Feb. 18.—For violations of the Sherman law in building up a cash register monopoly, John H. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register company of Dayton, O., and who is also Dayton's chief philanthropist, was sentenced to serve a year in the county jail at Troy, O., and to pay $5,000 fine.

This was the substance of the decree of Judge Howard Hollister in the United States court here when, after scoring Patterson's business methods, he also gave jail sentences to twenty-seven of Patterson's business associates, accused with him of having been in a conspiracy in restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman law. One of the twenty-eight men convicted with Patterson, George C. Edgerton, the company's secretary, was let go on suspended sentence. The sentences ranged from nine months to one year in jail and the fines ranged from cost of court to $5,000.

Before passing sentence Judge Hollister denied the motion of the defendants for a new trial, and declared that as the defense had submitted no new evidence, he had come to the conclusion that the verdict had been upheld by the evidence. Formal notice of an appeal to the United States circuit court was given by attorneys for the defendants.

Judge Hollister, in passing sentence, severely arraigned the defendants, declaring that the maintenance of the competition department with its "gloom room" and "morgue" constituted business methods that should not be countenanced.

"Technically, there are three offenses, all practically the same," he said. "To sentence on each count, however, would be unjust. Therefore I shall consider you as guilty of but one offense and there shall be no cumulative sentence. I must make your cases an example to others who are engaged in the same kind of business. The penalties I impose must stand out as a warning to those who would try to violate the law of the land in this manner."

"I have never heard of a legitimate concern having a competition department whose sole duties were not to sell goods, but to prevent the sale of goods by competitors. The only way that I can characterize them is to say that they were petty and mean."

Young Woman Teacher Shoots Alleged Seducer of Her Sister.

Muncie, Ind., Feb. 18.—Declaring that he was responsible for the downfall of her younger sister, Miss Doris Underwood, twenty-one, a teacher in the public schools at Hartford City, shot and probably fatally injured Otis Fisher, twenty years old, a clerk employed in the Nicholas drug store here.

Miss Underwood came to Muncie after her school had closed yesterday afternoon. Walking into the drug store, shortly before 7 o'clock, she began a conversation with Fisher relative to her sister's condition. Fisher asked her to step to the rear of the store and they went behind the prescription case. There the shooting occurred.

At the police station the young woman said that since her mother's death, several years ago, she has been acting the part of a mother to her

SPAIN SEEKS RETURN OF JEWS SHE ONCE EXPELLED.

Nation Offers Asylum En Bloc to People in Saloniki.

Advances showing a strong desire on the part of the Spanish government to attract back to Spain the Sephardic Jews of Turkey, whose ancestors were driven out of Spain centuries ago, are described in the American Hebrew's account of a recent visit of the Marquis de Nantouillet, the Spanish minister of Constantinople, to the Chief Rabbi Nahoum.

The Spanish minister expressed to the chief rabbi his regret that M. Nahoum had not invoked the protection of the Spanish government for the 70,000 Judios Espanoles at Saloniki, as well as that of the British and French ambassadors. The marquis added that if the Jews had suffered through the inquisition it should not be forgotten that Spain, too, had suffered heavily from the consequences of the acts committed centuries ago. Official Spain as well as the people, he said, were anxious to repair the great crime of their ancestors, which they felt was the blackest in their history.

The chief rabbi replied that he was deeply touched by the action of the minister and that the fresh advances made by him could not fail to produce an excellent impression on the Jews of the east.

In an interview which the Spanish minister gave to the correspondent for a Jewish paper he stated that in the event of Saloniki being detached from Turkey his government would regard very favorably the return en bloc of all the Jews in that city who were of Spanish descent. The Spanish government, he stated, was willing to open at its expense Jewish schools in Saloniki or the hinterland, where instruction would be given in Spanish.

The Glenwood Basket Ball Quintet defeated the Falmouth H. S. team with a score of 26 to 22. The members of the local team made a complaint of the posts being in the way of the players in throwing the ball to the goal. This makes the 3d game the boys have played and have never been defeated yet. The local team plays with Gings H. S. next Saturday

We are very sorry to learn that the boys can't have a civil game without a fight. We have no doubt but that the Fayette county grand jury will get hold of the affair. The revival services at the M. E. church are growing very interesting. The membership is coming up with a good attendance at each meeting, although many have bad colds and therefore do not any excuse for not coming. Bro. H. D. Sterrett is preaching the strongest sermons ever delivered from the pulpit at this place, and it is worth anybody's time to come and listen. Some have accused the preacher of being mad. So they did on the day of pentecost. If the accusation be true, we wish he may be mad whenever he enters the pulpit to preach. All that is needed now to be a real pentecost shower is a few strong Amens. Amens from the bottom of the heart which are meant.

Bro. Sterrett preached two most excellent sermons on the Sabbath day. The Sabbath school is being better attended by the male portion of the congregation since the revival begun.

FIREPROOF POCKETS IN VOGUE

Philadelphia Smokers Use Asbestos Lining While on Street Cars.

Philadelphia tailors are receiving orders from their customers that at least one asbestos pocket be placed in every suit and every overcoat they make as a result of the new "no smoking" rule of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company.

A widely known Walnut street tailor placed a large order for asbestos recently, and when asked if he had been employed to make an asbestos suit he explained: "Why, some of my customers are bringing back their overcoats to have the asbestos pocket fixed. They want the pocket as a saving in cigar bills."

BANDITS USED FALSE HOOFS.

Ingenious Contrivances Are Found Near Edge of Swamp.

What is believed to have been a safe blowers' cache, discovered at the edge of a swamp near Long Beach, Cal., yielded several ingenious contrivances apparently intended to divert pursuit after the commission of a crime.

They were a pair of imitation horse hoofs carved out of pine and fitted with straps so that they could be adjusted to a pair of shoes. An imitation cow's hoof fastened to a cane evidently was intended to be used in conjunction with the others to help give the impression of a man on horse back driving a cow.

F. E. Walling, a farmer living near Yukon, Mo., strongly recommends Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and says: "I have been advised by my family doctor to use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for my children when there was a cough medicine needed. ## NURSES VENGEANCE 42 YEARS Victim of Shot Says Assailant Was Enemy of Boyhood.

M. A. Root, member of a Denver tobacco firm, was shot and wounded seriously in his home recently by a man whom he says he recognized as a boyhood enemy at Ripon, Wis. Root was taken to the county hospital, where it was said there was a chance for his recovery.

Root said the trouble started in 1870, shortly after he left school in Wisconsin, when his home was robbed. He said he recognized the burglar as James Divinney. He had Divinney arrested, and the latter was sentenced to the penitentiary. At that time, Root says, Divinney swore vengeance.

Several times in the last fifteen years since he has lived in Denver Root has been attacked, shot at and once locked in his safe and nearly suffocated. On each occasion, Root says, he recognized his assailant as Divinney.

The house judiciary committee has reported favorably a bill providing for the payment by the state or county of $1.50 a day to destitute wives of inmates of penal institutions for the work of prisoners in prison or in road gangs. This law will cause a larger use of prisoners on state road work.

Members Intermarry Before Twenty and Divide With One Another.

A strange Jewish colony, practicing queer customs and peculiar rites and bearing many resemblances to a "lost tribe," has been found in Los Angeles by Dr. R. Farber, rabbi of Sinai temple. The colony, which is composed of members of about thirty families, lives almost on a communistic scheme, and the members divide their wealth among themselves. They do not marry outside of their own number and adhere to the belief that it is immoral for a man to pass the age of twenty and be unmarried. They came from Russia years ago and have been living here for some time unnoticed as a colony.

Compulsory Patriotism.

Representative Levy of New York has introduced into congress a bill for the manufacture of mechanical patriotism. He has devised the idea of compelling everybody to go through the conventional form of standing up whenever the "Star Spangled Banner" is played in public. This European custom imported into the United States is to be given the sanction of law. Patriotism is the civic spirit which seeks to uphold the good name of one's country by seeking to bring about the realization of its highest ideals. Flag worship and an exaggerated pretense of regard for the so-called national anthem with continued jingoistic shouting often cover an inward disloyalty to the best things for which our Republic professes to stand. The freak measure introduced in the Indiana legislature to provide that the American flag shall be carried at the head of every public procession, comes under the same head at the Levy bill in congress. This custom is not altogether to be deprecated, so far as it is spontaneous and comes from the resistless impulse of the heart; but as a set form, to be exacted by law or custom from all at all times, it is a mockery, and distinguish republican ways in no whit from feudalistic tyranny from which it is derived. In those countries where they make the most show of this custom, revolutions are most frequent.

There is something strange and curious about the way that provision for an annual salary of $6,000 for members of the proposed public service commission slipped into the public utility bill now before the legislature. It was originally announced in Indianapolis newspapers and press dispatches that the salary of members of the commission proposed in the bill should be $5,000 a year. One day last week somebody discovered the salary provision was $6,000 annually. Nobody knew a change had been made. A few of the faithful on the committee believed it had always been thus. That extra thousand was added some way. The method will probably never be known.

Representative Weisman has been "whitewashed" by the lower chamber of the legislature. It was he who declared on the floor of the house recently that he had seen a member of the legislature borrow $50 from a lobbyist in the corridors of an Indianapolis hotel. Representatives were in a huff over the indirect accusation. They demanded an investigation—and they got it. The gentleman from Green county said that he referred to a previous legislature, but no newspaper reporter caught that significance when he made the speech. And the brush was applied generously. Of course, a big Democratic majority has no business "getting the goods" on itself.

Washington's Birthday.

As the years go by, the luster that attaches to the name of George Washington grows brighter. Most people, having long ago dropped school books, and not being much given to the study of history, have too much forgotten the marvelous gifts that are exemplified in the life of the American Liberator.

No great military man of the present age has had to confront any such situation as Washington had to meet. The heroes of today are provided with the latest equipment that science can buy, and a force of trained men whose physical wants are met so far as human ingenuity can make possible, and who are sure of the regular pay envelope.

Washington had to build an army out of faith. He had to take men from scattered and more or less antagonistic colonies, poorly armed, half fed, and whip them into a fighting force that could meet the then most powerful nation on the globe. Anyone who can find an hour off

Feb. 22 to read the story over again will find it a tale of dramatic achievement superior to any fiction.

Representative Keegan, the representative from Marion county who resigned from the legislature because the house would not pass his eight-hour workday bill for women, referred to the legislature as a leper colony. The statement is unfair and unjust, and is deserving of a reprimand from the governor. Of course, every man in the legislature has the privilege of voting as he believes his constituents would have him vote. The legislature represents all of Indiana, and not Indianapolis. The practice of terming any body of men a leper colony because their views did not coincide with the accuser might be popular in Mexico, but it should not be in the legislative halls of enlightened Indiana.

The state legislature kept faith with the pronouncement of its leaders before the assembly opened by refusing to grant the increase in salary to the county auditors, but it erred in that policy when it pulled off some other salary grabs to reward politicians. The idea of increasing the salary of the oil inspector who already receives $2,500 a year is ridiculous. This is only one example of the many that were put through last week. The big Democratic majority can not overcome the temptation to reward the faithful when it has such a rare opportunity.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

A Discovery.

(Fl. Wayne News.)
One of the frothy young patriots of Collier's Weekly cries aoud in the darkness of our social night:

"The curse of congress is local interest. Communities judge congressmen by the amount of pork they bring back home, not by their patriotism, not by their advocacy of great national causes, not by their services to the country as a whole."

His discovery is an important one which has been recognized for many years by everyone of any intelligence. We all can see the curse plainly enough, but what we really want to see is the adequate remedy for it. It is easy enough to inveigh against the evil but there is not likely to be much good result from lamentation, until lamentation is supplemented by the offering of something worth while. And this need hardly be expected from Colliers. President Taft came nearer a solution than any one else when he urged the establishment of a genuine tariff commission to handle a matter that has raised more trouble in congress and been the cause of more scandal than other matters combined. Yet he received no encouragement from Collier's Weekly or from any of the other fountains of pure patriotism that sprout delirious words so graciously when there is nothing to be gained. Every must realize that the average congressman's vote in the tariff is controlled by local considerations and every mother's son of them is ready toicker and trade for that which will redound to the advantage of his particular district. Yet the president's honest and fearless efforts to terminate this abuse brought him only criticism and denunciation, and the magazines like Collier's even if they did not openly attack him, sat on the sidelines in silence and enjoyed his discomfiture. They cut sorry figures at this time, therefore, when they whine of a condition they have done so much to protect and perpetuate.

CHARLES HENRY WINS HIS POINT

I. & C. President Pleads For Amendment to Public Utilities Bill For Benefit of Interurbans.

ASSERTS MEASURE IS UNFAIR

But Legislators Agree to Place Electric Systems on Equal Basis With Steam Roads.

When the public service commission measure, the Shively-Spencer bill, is taken up Tuesday in the Senate, certain amendments will be adopted, according to the present program. These amendments will be concessions to the interurban or traction companies of the state. It is understood that the amendments will not seriously affect or weaken the bill, but will merely clear up, to the better satisfaction of the interurban people, the uncertainties which heretofore have been pointed out.

In short, having studied the suggestions made by Charles L. Henry of the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction Company, Governor Ralston and the authors of the public service commission bill have agreed to place in it the ideas put forward by Mr. Henry relating to the interurban according to Indianapolis newspapers.

For example, where the interurban companies ask that the interstate interurbans be exempted from valuation under the utilities law as are the steam railroads the bill is to be so amended as to provide that where an interstate public utility has been valued by the Interstate Commerce Commission the Indiana public service commission in its discretion may accept the physical valuation made by the Interstate Commerce Commission and limit the state's activities to the valuing of things other than the physical property of the corporation.

In the valuation clause of the bill it is said to be the purpose to make a plain statement of the things which shall be valued and which shall go to make up the valuation returned. This would include the building up value, the cost of bringing the utilities to its then efficiency, etc.

The Shively-Spencer bill as drafted carries the valuation provision of the Wisconsin law. It is said the Wisconsin provision values the things that the intangible as well as the physical property and bases its valuation upon the various items which enter into the making of a going concern.

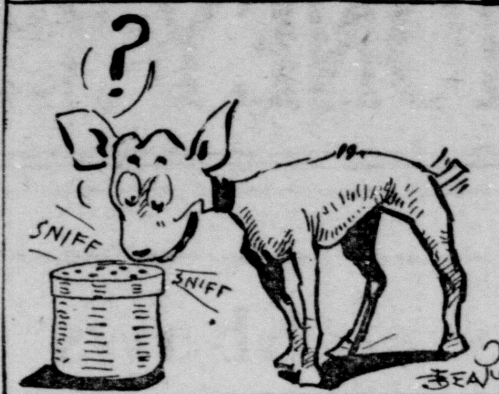

It has been the contention of the utilities of Indiana, however, that this valuation scheme should be set out in so many words in the law, so that no commission might fail to take into consideration the things of value which of right ought to be considered. In making this provision plain the interurbans, led by Mr. Henry, will have gained their point, and still, according to the authors, will not have weakened the bill.

As to compelling public utilities companies to issue stocks only at 100 cents on the dollar, the farmers of the proposed utilities bill have yielded to the suggestions made by Mr. Henry. The interurban people have insisted that in putting this drastic restriction upon stock sales, while permitting bonds to be sold at as low as 65 cents on the dollar, the bill would work against the interests of the public. Under such an arrangement, the utilities say, the bondholders would be the only persons to find profit in utilities. The promoter, they assert, would be deprived of his opportunity to make money on his investments, his energies and his risk. The bonds would draw dividends whether or no, and the people would pay, but no encouragement would be given the investor to start new utilities—interurbans to compete against steam railroads, for example.

One of the strongest arguments in favor of altering this drastic provision as to stock issues came from Wisconsin itself, where the provision is in effect and where interurban building has been at a standstill for the last five years.

In amending the bill so as to remedy this trouble over stocks it is said to be the purpose to safeguard matters by providing that where stocks are sold the public service commission shall approve the issue and the price at which it goes to market. Also it is to be set out that when a share of stock is sold at 50 cents on the dollar it shall not be counted at 100 cents on the dollar in stating the capitalization of the utility when making rates for the concern. In other words, in basing rates partly on capitalization, it will not be permitted to base the rates on 50 cents of water added to 50 cents actual capitalization.

HE WONDERS WHAT IT IS - THEN SUDDENLY FINDS OUT

The amendment to the public service commission bill are ready and no time is to be lost in putting them in and grinding the measure through the Senate mill, according to the plans now made. These amendments would have been attached to the bill last week, but they were not completed. They were drawn by John A. Lapp of the legislative reference department, and it is understood the substance of the amendments was agreed upon by Governor Ralston and other Democratic leaders following the Governor's talk a day or two ago with Mr. Henry.

Henry Romine Today Found Guilty of First Degree Murder For Part in McQuaid Deaths.

STILL SAYS HE ISN'T GUILTY

Columbus, Ind., February 18.—Henry Romine was today sentenced to life imprisonment for the murders of the aged McQuaid brothers near North Vernon last October, having been found guilty of murder in the first degree. The jury, receiving the case yesterday, was out all night, returning a verdict at 8 o'clock today. His attorneys will file a motion for a new trial.

The state will begin preparations at once for the trials of J. Rufus Clark and James Tyler, who were indicted with Romine for the murders.

Romine turned very pale when the verdict was read, but displayed no emotion.

"I am innocent," he said. "I did not expect such a verdict."

William Fitzgerald, of North Vernon, made the final argument for the state yesterday. As the other attorneys for the prosecution had done, he demanded the death penalty for Romine.

DEATH COMES IN EIGHTIETH YEAR

Mrs. Martha Ann Simms, Native of Rush County, Expires at Son's Home in Lebanon.

FUNERAL HELD YESTERDAY
 Deceased a Devoted Member of Methodist Church all Her Life—Twice Married.

The funeral of Mrs. Martha Ann Simms, age eighty years, was held at the home of her son, Morris Ritchie, in Lebanon yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by the Rev. W. P. McKinsey and the Rev. E. W. Robbins. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery near Lebanon.

Mrs. Simms was born and reared in Rush county. The date of her birth was October 25, 1832, and she was consequently eighty years, three months and twenty days old. She left Rush county about twenty years ago.

Mrs. Simms had been ill about fifteen months. At Christmas time she suffered an attack of pneumonia but had recovered. She had been afflicted with organic heart trouble for some time and this was the cause of her demise Saturday night. She was cheerful and uncomplaining during her illness and her interest in the comfort and welfare of those near to her remained with her throughout.

She was twice married, the first time in January 1853 to A. W. Ritchie, who died in 1863 and the second time Oct. 3, 1865 to W. W. Simms, who died in 1891. Mr. Simms was a member of the 57th Indiana regiment during the civil war.

The children surviving are Mrs. N. B. Dewey and Morris Ritchie by the first marriage and Miss Rose Simms by the second marriage. Mrs. Simms reared two of the children of a deceased son, W. T. Ritchie. Of these children, Raymond now resides in Cleveland, O., and Mrs. Bessie Trout in Lebanon.

One sister, Mrs. Naomi C. Brooks and two brothers, Cicero Simms and Lewis Simms, survive her. One of the brothers, Cicero Simms is in his ninety-second year and resides in Frankfort. The other, Lewis Simms, is a resident of Forest and is eighty-two years old.

Mrs. Simms was a member of the Methodist church in Lebanon. She had been identified with that denomination since 1852, having joined the church in Rush county. Her life has been an inspiration to all who knew her.

HAD TO RIDE A RAIL.
 When the scholars of the Indiana Dental college heard that Verl Bebout, Rushville, Ind., a junior at the college, had married Miss Ruth Aldridge of Rushville on Tuesday night without their knowledge, it was "all off" for Verl, and when he arrived at the college Saturday he was met by a large number of fellow students who, in spite of his pleadings, rode him through the streets on a rail, says the Indianapolis Sun. Afterward he was taken to the election room of the dental college and forced to give a speech.

The Lohengrin wedding march, played by Miss Flenore, of Kansas City, began at four o'clock. Four girl friends of the bride, attired in white, attended the bride couple down the stairs. The affair was impressively beautiful in all parts. In the wedding gown fine taste and the utmost art were shown. It was a blue and gray suit, with hat to match, trimmed in American Beauty roses. The corsage bouquet was of American Beauty colored sweet peas and lilies of the valley. The bridegroom was attired in a handsome business suit.

CHAPTER X.

The Silent Partner.

There are men who make a living, sometimes a very good one, through the process of teaching others to do what they themselves can not do. You can purchase for a price in any of many quarters printed maxims embodying full formulae covering the secret of success; in each case from one who has not succeeded. Nothing is cheaper than maxims, in type, in word, or in transparency. To be in the fashion you should have certain of these above your desk, and should incline your ear to those who profess to teach what can not be taught even by those most nearly fitted to teach.

John Rawn cared little for maxims, being above them, in his own belief, at least. In all likelihood he had never read the advice of the philosopher, to wit: that each man should hitch his wagon to a star. No, he knew something better. He hitched his to a river.

Very naturally, John Rawn selected the largest river he could find. His silent partner was none less than the Father of the Waters!

There is this to be said about a river, that it is wholly tireless and immeasurably powerful; that it enters into no combinations against capital, and does its work without unseemly disturbances. Rawn was wise enough to know these things, nor asked any maxims to advise him therein. In his belief it was better to allow this sort of silent partner to furnish the industry and the economy.

Who shall measure the power of a river, for ever falling to the sea? How many millions of horses and men has it equalled in its wondrous power in each generation, in each decade, in each year? Certainly sufficient to lift the entire burden of labor from the shoulders of the world.

What mind can measure the extent of such a force, or dream the possibilities of its application, if it could be set to work? What equivalent of human brain and brawn could be valued against this ceaseless, ceaseless power, derived endlessly from the air and the earth—power given to the peoples of the earth before the arrival of our present political and industrial masters; given them in the time when the earth was the Lord's and the fullness thereof. The minerals under the earth, the food produced in the soil, the waters offering paths and power—before the earth and its fullness passed from the hands of the Lord into those of our present masters, these, it may be conceived, were intended as the Lord's gift to the peoples of the earth. That, however, was quite before the advent of John Rawn.

Toil has always been the human lot. We have carried the mechanical burdens as well as the mental burdens of life on our own human bodies and souls; although all the time thousands of patient giants were waiting, willing to serve us. John Rawn could see them waiting. He knew to whom one day would be due the power, and the kingdom, and the glory. He could look toward the white-topped mountains, foreseeing the day when they would be put under tribute, because they breed tumbling waters of immeasurable strength and utility. Their heritage of beauty and majesty is naught to minds such as that of John Rawn's. Utility is the one word in the maxims of such as these, men beloved of the immortal gods.

We speak of kings, of emperors, but what emperor in all the history of the world had servants such as these, submissive giants such as these, to work for him? We speak of miracles of old. What miracles ever equaled the business wonders, the money-piling miracles, of the last twenty years in America?

Where gat this silent partner of John Rawn's its own tremendous power? Out of the sun and the earth, the parents of humanity. The rain-drop on the leaf, shot through with the shaft of the sun, fell to some nearby rill and, joined by other rills, marched on, alive, tireless, tremendous, toward the sea. Even far up toward their source, had your little boat lodged, counter to the current, on some rock or snag, and had you attempted to push it back against the thrust of the downcoming waters, you might have got some knowledge of the power of even a little stream. Ten feet below you, that power again would have been quite as great; and ten feet below that again as great; and so on, to the sea. It required the advice of no professional maxim makers to teach a few of our great men, our specially endowed superiors, John Rawn first among them, that this power one day must be used. In accordance as it shall be used, the burden of humanity may be lifted from human shoulders, or thrust crushingly down upon them until indeed humanity shall cease to hope. The earth and its fullness are no more the Lord's today. They are John Rawn's.

The simple plan of the International Power company was to make some strong obstruction inviting the enormous resistance of the Father of the Waters, tantalizing that power into being. Thus, in a manner perfectly simply, this force, once evoked and utilized, would turn numberless wheels endlessly, tirelessly. So much for the material side of manifested power. The essence, the soul, the intangible spirit of that material power was, in the plans of International, to be transmitted by wire at first, and later through the free air. Its sale in definite and merchantable quantities would come as near to the solution of the problem of perpetual motion and perpetual profit as may be arrived at in this world of limitations.

Rawn asked nothing better than this idea. It was beautiful, and he valued it over all his many and various other ventures. He could let his silent partner put other men out of work; and so these could be rehired at such price as he himself cared to set. He saw the time approach when he would be able to retail at a price, remote from his silent, tireless partner's la-doors, merchantable packages of power, to feed a cart, a plow, a wheel of any sort; power to lift and labor, to toil ceaselessly without remonstrance. It was and is a splendid dream. Its bearing is as you be Rawn or Halsey. That power shall labor for or against mankind as ourselves shall say.

Shall we blame ourselves, or John Rawn, in this republic, that he saw on ahead only limitless personal power, limitless gold, jewels, wine, women, personal indulgence of any sort that appealed to him? Shall we blame Halsey for dreading the issue of these plans, delaying them all he could; clinging to the belief that the earth was the Lord's and the fullness thereof; and that the Lord gave it to all mankind? And shall we blame the stockholders for being impatient at renewed delays? The wire transmission was installed, making every man in the International rich. Yet every man in the secret of the real ambition of this company burned inwardly at this enforced secrecy and this unseemly delay. The mysterious factory at the edge of the great inland city still was silent. The directors raged. They wanted to drain to the last drop the strength even of this tireless giant. They wanted to begin to bottle, measure and sell, sell for ever, the very force which holds the spheres in their places. In time we shall perhaps see completed what these men planned. There is no logical reason why, if one planet can be owned by a John Rawn or so, yet others should not.

For a long time Jim Sullivan, foreman at the factory of the International, wondered and pondered as to the real intent of these strange machines which he saw little by little growing up under the uncommunicative direction of the superintendent, Halsey. He had never seen anything like them, with their vast coils of insulation, their intricate cogs and wheels, their centrally-hidden huge glass jars, and the long, toothed ridge, like a delicate metal comb, which surmounted the top of each. There was something mysterious about it all. He was sure that Halsey did something with these machines when the men were not about. The very air seemed throbbing with some tense quality of mystery. The men themselves were suspicious, irritable. Never was the air in any factory more surcharged alike with ignorance and with anxiety. Man after man, good mechanic though he was, quit the place simply because he did not know what he was doing. The feeling of mystery was tense, oppressive.

On one certain Sunday morning Jim Sullivan strolled over to the vacant factory. He knew that the superintendent had spent almost the entire night there working alone on one of these mysterious machines. It stood there now. And—yes! It was different from what it had been when Sullivan last saw it! It was now apparently complete, so far as he could tell. There was no one near it. Halsey had gone home, to bed. Of late he had been very tired, pale, haggard; and he always was at work in the factory, when good men slept, and knew light-winged dreams.

Jim Sullivan stood now looking at the grim, uncanny machine, hands in his pockets, wondering. He looked about him, superstitiously. There seemed to be something in the air, he could not explain what. He turned, looking behind him, and tiptoed to the front door, where Tim Carney, the blue-coated guardian, stood leaning against the wall.

"Tim!" he whispered, although there was none to hear. "Come on in here!"

"What is it, Jim?" asked the watchman.

"I dunno; that's why I'm callin' you."

"Has anny wan broke into th' place?"

"Not as I know, but somethin's happened here. I'm figurin' 'twas the boss done it. Come in and have a luk, now. He's gone home."

They stepped gingerly on across the floor, along the row of unfinished machines, and paused at the one farthest from the door, which had excited Jim's curiosity.

"Here's where the boss worked all last night!" whispered the foreman hoarsely. "'Twas daybreak when he come home, an' he was all in. He's been workin' on her before now, I know that. I'm thinkin' she's about done, belike!"

"Whatever kind of a spook joint is this, anyhow, Jim?" demanded the watchman. "What's she for, do ye think now?" They two, bullet-headed, hairy, heavy and powerful, stood looking at this contrivance, whose growth through many months they had been watching. The value of it either could measure in comprehensible terms. It was worth ten thousand dollars to either of them who would—and could—tell a certain man how it was made.

"I dunno what she's for," answered Jim slowly, "but I'm thinkin' it's no good at all. It's the devil, maylike. Not that she's so big neither. I could almost turn her over with a pinch bar." He pointed to an arm, or lever, which stood at the side of the machine. "She looks somethin' like one o' them drills I used to run in th' tunnel, time Hogan was mayor, do ye mind? Whin we wanted to throw her in we pushed down an arm, somethin' like this."

"Sure, Jim, 'tis you have the head fer machines. I dunno about thim at all," rejoined Tim, scratching his head. "But 'tis a shame we can't throw her in, now. Shanny a time I've wondered what 'twas all about in here. Why shud strangers be so anxious as to—"

Russian Orthodox Congregation Will Have Notable Structure.

Ground will be broken in Philadelphia early in March for the erection of a new church to be built by St. Michael's Russian Orthodox church as a memorial to the victims of the Titanic disaster.

The ground on which the structure is to stand has been purchased, and if the present plans of the congregation are realized the cornerstone will be laid on April 14, the first anniversary of the sinking of the vessel.

The plans as submitted by the architects called for a $45,000 structure. The congregation of the church and the rector, Rev. J. T. Krohmalney, hope, however, to secure sufficient funds to warrant the use of finer materials in the building. Following the idea of the Titanic memorial, the rector will shortly make an appeal to wealthy survivors of the wreck in several eastern cities. He has already stated that he intends to call upon Mrs. Russell Thayer, Mrs. George D. Widener and Vincent Astor.

A concert will be given in the Academy of Music by the cathedral kapella of the Russian Orthodox church of New York during the latter part of this month for the benefit of St. Michael's church. During the three years of the existence of the church services have been held in the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Advent.

An Asheville dentist returned recently from a Smoky mountain lumber camp, where he had 100 customers. He did not cut off the teeth, but crowned them with gold. In no case was a crown needed.

PRICE COMBINATIONS GIVEN ANOTHER BLOW

How a New York Jeweler Beat the Game.

New York, Feb. 18.—In the United States district court Judge Ray dismissed the equity suit brought by the Waltham Watch company against Charles A. Keene, a Broadway jeweler. The complainants sought to restrain Keene from selling the Waltham movements at less than the price prescribed by the manufacturers.

Keene held that he was not bound by the contract that the Waltham people claimed he had violated, since he did not buy the watches in this country, but imported them from Europe. At a recent hearing in Washington Mr. Keene told some of the methods he was forced to resort to in buying his watches abroad in order to lull the suspicions of the Waltham company. He said that on one occasion his buyer in London had a consignment shipped to Egypt, telling the London house of the Waltham company that he intended to make a great play with the watch there. Then the goods were shipped to this city, and still Keene was able to cut the local price.

As precedent for his adjudication Judge Ray cited the United States supreme court decision in the case of the bathtub trust. "On the subject of fixing prices for resale by dealers to consumers," said Judge Ray, "the supreme court of the United States has declared that such limitations are opposed to a sound public policy and void, and that a combination having that for its object is illegal."

Hallet was fined $50 and sentenced to jail for six months.

FURTHER ACTION AGAINST MEXICO

More Marines Dispatched to Gulf Coast.

QUICK AND EFFECTIVE BLOW

Can Be Struck in Defense of American Interests in Case Necessity Arises, the Government Rapidly Completing Its Arrangements for the Sending of an Armed Force into Troubled Republic at a Moment's Notice.

Washington, Feb. 18.—To complete preparation for the sending of the armed forces of the United States into Mexico, President Taft has directed another movement on behalf of the Americans in that country. By his order 2,000 marines will proceed to the American naval base at Guantanamo bay, Cuba, and establish a camp there in readiness for a movement on Mexico should it become necessary. The army transport Meade today took on board 1,200 marines at Philadelphia. Eight hundred additional marines will be taken on board by the naval transport Prairie in a day or two at Norfolk and sail thence to Guantanamo. The marines will be under the command of Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet at Guantanamo. Colonel Lincoln Karmany and Colonel Joseph H. Pendleton will be the regimental commanders of the marine detachment. One hundred marines are now stationed at Guantanamo, and they will be merged with the 2,000 marines ordered to the naval base.

This movement of marines, it is said, is not to be taken as an indication of an intention upon the part of President Taft to intervene in Mexico, but is merely to increase the preparedness of the government to send a relief expedition to Mexico City in case of necessity. The marines and blue-jackets on the battleships Georgia, Nebraska and Vermont, at Vera Cruz, and on the Virginia at Tampico, would constitute an advance landing force of about 2,000 men on the east coast of Mexico, while the expeditionary force being sent to Guantanamo will serve as the reserve for the present.

Besides putting the United States in a position to strike a quick and effective blow at Mexico in case of necessity, it is hoped that this additional movement of marines will serve to notify Mexico that the United States is ready to act promptly whenever the situation seems to require it. It is intended by this move that President Madero and all elements in the contest in Mexico City shall realize that President Taft has not by any means reached the conclusion that he will do nothing with regard to the Mexican situation.

The administration is determined to keep the Mexican government and the Diaz faction as well keenly alive to the necessity of reaching a settlement.

BOMBARDMENT CONTINUES

No Letup in the Mad Warfare in Mexico's Capital.

Mexico City, Feb. 18.—There has been more severe fighting between the Peleistas and the Maderistas. General Huerta attempted to bring heavy guns within direct range of the arsenal, but the federal artillerymen were not able to make progress against machine guns from the roof of the arsenal.

The situation of non-combatants and of foreign residents is much improved. The area of the fighting has been restricted to the center of the city, and the Americans in refuge at their embassy are not endangered by the artillery fire.

The government detected a plot among many prominent Mexicans to supply Diaz with food and money. The conspiracy was discovered accidentally and many arrests of prominent citizens followed.

General Diaz continues to shell the national palace from his positions at the arsenal and the Y. M. C. A. building. The federal batteries located in the Plaza de San Juan continue their fire at the arsenal, but are unable to do much damage. There was house-to-house fighting when Diaz's troops made a sortie and tried to drive the federal machine gunners and sharpshooters from the roofs.

There has been no change whatever in the president's attitude. Madero is determined, his officers say, to continue in office or lose his life in the civil war. He has been informed by General Huerta that Diaz can be starved out of the arsenal. The federal officers say that Diaz's soldiers are subsisting on horseflesh.

There was a conference of senators at the chamber of deputies, but no action of importance was taken. The battle has been in progress in the heart of the city for more than a week and incalculable damage has been done to buildings in the line of fire, while the loss of life is thought to have reached above a thousand, the Maderistas suffering more than the followers of Felix Diaz, on account of the sheltered position of the latter.

Will Try Conclusions With Taft.

Washington, Feb. 18.—A final vote will be taken today, on a motion by Senator Lodge, to pass the immigration bill which was vetoed by the president.

CAREY JACKSON

TO AVERT HOLY WAR IN THE PHILIPPINES

President Taking Steps to Placate Moros.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The belief is now prevalent among the masses of Mindanao, according to late reports from the Philippines, that the United States is levying taxes and imposts for the sole purpose of raising money to use in entirely obliterating all traces of the Mohammedan religion. This idea has been fostered by the revolutionists, and it is said that the government is now face to face with a serious uprising if something cannot be done to dispel this belief.

Major Finley, who has been stationed in the Philippines for ten years, with a single leave of absence, sailed today for New York, expecting to reach Constantinople about March 1 with a letter from President Taft asking an interview with the sultan, so that pacificatory negotiations can be arranged without delay.

President Taft did not decide to send Major Finley to the sultan until the entire cabinet had debated the question a number of times.

Foul Play Suspected.

Washington, Ind., Feb. 18.—Ira Fox, a farmer living north of Swan Pond, has disappeared from home and his family is unable to obtain the slightest trace of him. No cause for his disappearance is given and some fear is expressed that he may have been foully dealt with. Fox had considerable money with him.

Shot Through Window.

Danville, Ind., Feb. 18.—Coleman Clearwater is in jail charged with attempting to kill Harley Rector at Stilesville. Clearwater met Rector in front of Rector's general store, and, after a few words, Rector stepped into the store. Clearwater drew a revolver and shot through the front window, the bullet striking Rector's hat.

Police Graft Alleged.

Elkhart, Ind., Feb. 18.—Under charge of collecting "protection" money from proprietors of two disorderly houses in Elkhart, Chief of Police Albert Rinehart is on trial before the police board and City Attorney Proctor. The hearing will continue several days.

Many Millions Still Needed.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Colonel Goethals, in charge of the Panama canal, estimates that the sum of $23,404,909.61 will be needed to continue work on the waterway in the fiscal year that will begin July 1 next.

ASSESSORS WILL SOON BE ON JOB

Township Officials Are Preparing
For Annual Assessment of Property Which Begins Soon.

A NEW PLAN IS TO BE TRIED

State Department Advises Careful
Inquiry to Get More Complete
Personal Property List.

The twelve township assessors of the county, working under County Assessor Moses are getting ready for work, and they will start on their rounds the first of the coming month and must have the job completed early in May.

This year the assessors will make an effort to get a more complete listing of personal property. There was a falling off in this class of taxables the last year, and, some of this was picked up later by the county assessor. In the matter of cash and interest bearing paper that is taxable the assessors have been instructed by the state department and the local head of taxing department to be more careful and making a greater effort to get all of this that should go on the duplicate.

Assessors in a great many parts of the state have found that men have made a practice of loaning money in the name of their wife and when the assessor asks them to sign a statement as to whether or not they are the owners of any notes, bonds, cash or other taxable securities they find it convenient to say not, going on the theory that the notes are in the name of the wife and technically, at least, they do not have anything that should go on the taxing sheet. Thus the security escapes paying taxes at all.

The assessors have been advised by the state department to make careful inquiry as to whether or not the man being assessed has any knowledge of property in the family, or with which he is connected that should go on the duplicates. This kind of a question will make it impossible for a man to sequester his taxes unless he resorts to deliberate and knowing falsehood, and later on if this property is found he will have no excuse to avoid punishment as the law provides.

The list of property for taxes this year will be at about the same values as taken last year. Horses, cattle, hogs, sheep and other live stock will carry with them about the same valuation as was carried last year. The same rules will generally prevail.

Miss Sallie Logan of Raleigh underwent an operation for appendicitis this morning at the Sexton sanatorium.

ON TRIAL AGAIN

such a case on the mere threat of a civil proceedings.

Mr. Tittsworth asserted that attempts were often made to settle what was believed to be, in the mind of the plaintiff, just claims against a defendant, before suit was filed. He said that in many cases a plaintiff resorted to this plan to give the person complained of an opportunity to make the alleged restitution and thus avoid a law suit.

At the close of the argument, after he had read the letter which it was alleged was written by Blakemon to McCann, Judge Megee overruled the motion to quash the affidavit and ordered the empaneling of the jury to proceed. The basis for Judge Megee's ruling was that an attempt to blackmail might be made with the threat of a civil action as with the threat of a criminal procedure.

This alleged blackmail case has been in the Rush circuit court two or three years. Blakemon and John Ferguson, another colored man, were first indicted by the grand jury, charged with conspiring to blackmail McCann. They were released when the indictment was quashed by the court, because it was faulty in that the date of the alleged attempt was not correct.

Ferguson was out on bond, and after an unsuccessful attempt was made by Blakemon's attorneys to gain his release under a writ of habeas corpus, he obtained bond and was granted his freedom. Another indictment was returned by the next grand jury and the two men were re-arrested and admitted to bail.

The case drifted along for some time when the indictment as to Ferguson was dismissed, it having been rumored at the time that the State's attorneys had decided that they could not prove a conspiracy. As it requires two to form a conspiracy, the indictment against Blakemon was later dismissed on the motion of the prosecutor.

Soon thereafter the affidavit on which Blakemon is now being tried was filed by the prosecutor and signed by McCann, as the prosecuting witness. He has been out on bond.

Reuben Conner of Connersville, J. Q. Thomas and Hall & Campbell are looking after McCann's interest and assisting the State in the prosecution. Watson, Tittsworth & Green are Blakemon's attorneys.

The case of the State against John Ryan, a road supervisor who is charged in a grand jury indictment with assaulting, with intent to kill, the trustee of Richland township, which was set for trial yesterday, was continued on a motion of the defendant.

The appeal in the case of the state against Paul Offutt, who was found guilty of speeding by a jury in Mayor Black's court and fined a dollar a costs, and who appealed to the circuit court, has dismissed the appeal after a motion to quash the charge had been overruled by Judge Megee. Offutt will have to pay the fine in mayor's court.

The petition of Jesse Crim against Mary E. Blair to modify a judgment was dismissed at the cost of the plaintiff.

The court has ordered Walter Hinkle committed to the state village for epileptics near Newcastle on a showing that he was in such a condition that he should be sent there for treatment. The application for admission was filed by the father of the boy, Charles W. Hinkle.
